

a position is a row of a second learned table, exactly like a token every block then rewrites this sequence of vectors into a better one